SELEX Galileo signs a Memorandum of Understanding with Boeing Australia

SELEX Galileo of Finmeccanica and Boeing Australia have signed a Memorandum of Understanding aimed at the establishment of a collaborative relation in support of the respective business and industrial interests.

SELEX Galileo and Boeing Australia, each hold significant experience and know-how in the field of Unmanned Systems and both have preliminarily identified the JP 66 Programme, relative to the provision of Aerial Target Services to the Australian Defence Forces, as the first opportunity that could be jointly pursued.

Under this MoU Boeing Australia and SELEX Galileo will analyse and identify through the activities of a joint working group initiatives of common interest entering, on a case by case basis, into specific arrangements.

The MIRACH 100/5 Aerial Training System, is widely recognised for its proven capabilities of simulating multiple threats from weapon systems in the High Speed, High G and Low Altitude maneuvers domain. Reference is witnessed by activity in the following major European firing ranges:
N.A.T.O. Missile Firing Installation (NAMFI), Crete, Greece
CEDEA, El Arenosillo, Spain
Centre d'Essais des Landes (CEL), France
Hebrides Range, Scotland, United Kingdom
ParcAberporth Range, Wales, United Kingdom
Poligono Interforze Salto di Quirra (P.I.S.Q.), Sardinia, Italy

SELEX GALILEO has operated the MIRACH 100/5 at NAMFI since January 1988, when the company was awarded the first target system services contract in cooperation with Dornier GmbH of Germany. Since then SELEX GALILEO has been awarded four successive contracts.
