SELEX Galileo wins top Manufacturing Award for Product Innovation

SELEX Galileo, a Finmeccanica Company, has been awarded the Product Innovation prize at the Institute of Mechanical Engineer's prestigious MX2009 Manufacturing Awards.

The Company's world-class facilities in the City of Edinburgh received the honour after leading judges through the development of E-Scan Radar, providing evidence of the way in which SELEX Galileo has consistently challenged its product innovation techniques to ensure that its products work first time, every time and under the most challenging conditions.

SELEX Galileo's CEO Mr. Steve Mogford said "SELEX Galileo strives to remain at the forefront in Manufacturing Excellence and to ensure we continue to provide the best service to our customers and an optimum working environment for our workforce. To be named among the winners at the IMechE MX Awards is a great achievement."
